2.4. Cookies will be stored for a maximum of 12 months after being dropped on a device.

2.5. The Company also uses pixel tags (also known as javascript or 1×1 pixels) and tracking codes to drop cookies. A pixel tag is a tiny graphic or script placed on a website that is not visible to the user. The use of pixel tags and tracking codes allows the Company to count the number of visits to the website.

2.6. The Company believes that the tracking technologies used by the Company and described above enhance the user's web experience. However, a user can disable or delete the use of cookies at any time via settings in his browser via activation opt-out function. However, disabling Cookies can lead to the non-operability and/or limited access to some parts of this website and/or its partners' websites, and the user will be deprived of the opportunity, including receiving targeted ads from the Company and its partners.

2.7. Customers, advertisers, partners of the Company can use their own databases, which can contain personal data of users that were provided by users for the purposes of clients, advertisers, and partners. In such cases, advertisers, customers, and partners of the Company are fully responsible for the user's consent to the processing of the information provided by them and to obtaining appropriate information.

2.8. The user is entitled at any time to prohibit the Company to collect personal information by cookies via activation "Opt-Out" function.

The user is entitled at any time to request the Company to delete any personal information regarding the user from the Company data services by sending an email to: khuminomjonov@gmail.com

The Company notes activation of "Opt-out" is applicable only to this Website. The refusal does not apply to advertisers, partners of the Company, who use their own cookies to collect statistical information.

3. DATA CONTROLLER, DATA COLLECTED, PURPOSE

3.1. Besides the data collected when a cookie is dropped, the Company also collects the following possible personal data: the IP-address, postal code, region and country of a user, language setting, the type of browser (such as Chrome, Safari, Firefox or Internet Explorer), operating system used and connection speed, status of a user (unknown, accepting or not accepting cookies), the web page address(es) where the ad has been delivered, and administered clicks on ads. This information helps our technology to choose the most relevant service to a user.

3.2. The information collected (by means of cookies and/or other tracking methods) is processed for internal purposes only: i.e. to possibly build user profiles that enable the Company to optimize and personalize its services.

4. PROVISION OF DATA TO THIRD PARTIES

4.1. The Company provides access to user or customer's personal data (name, email, telephone number) in the following cases:

- the user has been given appropriate consent to provide such data;
- at the request of the public authorities in order to comply with the applicable legislation.

4.2. By giving consent to the processing of personal data, the user agrees that his data can be transferred to payment systems to the extent necessary for making payments.

4.3. The Company processes the information itself and does not transfer and provide access to user or customer's personal information to third parties without appropriate consent.

5. OTHER

The Privacy Policy applies solely to this Website. The Company does not control and is not responsible for any third party website.

6. GDPR CLAUSE

In operating this Website, the Company processes data as a controller (as such terms are defined in the GDPR). As a controller, the Company is committed to fulfill data subjects' ('users') GDPR rights.

Under GDPR, if you are EU resident, you may:

- Request information about the processing of your data, as well as the receipt of a copy of your personal data. You can request information on the purposes of the processing, the categories of personal data being processed, the recipients of the data (if they are passed on), the duration of the storage or the criteria for determining the duration.
- Correct your data. Should your personal data be incomplete, you have the right to complete the data, taking into account the processing purposes.

- Delete or block your data. Reasons for the existence of a cancellation/blocking right can be, among others, the revocation of the consent on which the processing is based, the data subject objects to the processing, the personal data were processed unlawfully.
- Restrict the processing.
- Object to the processing of your data.
- Revoke your consent to the processing of your data in the future.
- Complaint to the competent supervisory authority about inadmissible data processing.

The Company is committed to assist its controllers as to data subjects' rights under the General Data Protection Regulation (Regulation (EU) 2016/679) (GDPR).

Please note that under the GDPR the Company processes data provided into the services as a processor and not as a controller (i.e. Supply Partners). As a processor, the Company is committed to assist its controllers to fulfill data subjects' GDPR rights.

Therefore, if you wish to exercise your rights under the GDPR or have any questions in this matter, please contact the relevant the Company's controller directly. When needed and upon request, the Company will assist its controllers.
